

AVIATOR FLIES OVER HIS HOME

Valley Residents Thrilled by Flight of Lieut. W. Ansel Gardner.

Berino, N. M., June 27.—Lieut. W. Ansel Gardner, born and reared in Berino, had the pleasure and distinction of piloting the first airplane through the upper valley Thursday morning. Persons were attracted by the noise of the motor and from the crowd in this community while Lieut. Gardner sat in his plane through all of the aerial maneuvers. He flew over his mother's home and that of his brother, several times the machine came so close to earth that a landing seemed inevitable.

MAJ. WOOLLEN RETURNS TO EL PASO FOR DISCHARGE

Maj. Thomas G. Woollen, 33rd Infantry, 9th division, returned to El Paso recently on a 15 day furlough, and will be discharged at 10 o'clock this morning at the El Paso Hotel. He is making his home temporarily at 2224 Montana street. His wife, who formerly was Miss Gertrude Wright of Amarillo, Tex., arrived two weeks ago.

Maj. Woollen received a personal citation from Brig. Gen. L. G. McAlexander for the skillful and courageous command of the 33rd Infantry, 9th division, I and 2. He was recommended for the distinguished service cross.

CARRIERS' DAY

An interesting day for the carriers in the month, the carriers will call to collect their June accounts. Kindly be prepared to settle with them.

STERN'S MARKET

Several reasons why you should buy at the City Market and especially at Stern's Market. They sell from 25 to 50 per cent cheaper than others. This means a saving to you of dollars—not cents.

This store grew from a modest market to the leading market in the city within one year—and these prices will show you the reason why.

Riley Says He Mortgaged Home To Buy Oil Stock

Man Charged With Killing Broker Randall Released On $10,000 Bond.

Following a hearing of a habeas corpus suit filed by W. T. Riley, charged with the murder of William B. Randall, Judge W. D. Howe, in the 11th district court on Friday morning, decided that the case was bailiable and fixed Riley's bond at $10,000. An effort now is being made to raise the bond and obtain Riley's release.

Riley himself constituted the chief witness at the hearing. In a calm, low voice, devoid of emotion, he related the financial dealings he had had with the dead man and how he had killed him.

Mortgages His Home.

"I first met Randall in August or September of 1917," he said. "I bought some stock from him and later added to it until I had $1500 worth. He said he was going to sell the stock for me at $100 each and that he was ready to start drilling for oil. He said he would give me a mortgage on my home, for $1000. He said the note. Later I found he had purchased pipe for the drilling as he said he had.

"I then told him I wanted my money back. A man named Jones came to me and told me that Randall had said if I did not keep out of his business and quit meddling with his affairs, that I would interfere with his business. I took that to mean that he would kill me. I never told anyone that I believed I ought to kill him.

Describes Killing.

"I met Randall on State avenue the day this happened. I went up to him and said I wanted the money he had robbed me of. His eyes opened wide and his hand dropped to his side as he said that he did not owe me any money. Then I struck him with that big knife."

L. W. Hoffman, who was with Randall at the time, testified that Randall made no move to injure Riley and that the latter stabbed Randall even before he had finished replying to the demand for money.

Testimony Concludes.

"I told him, not to do that," Gardner said, "because he would get into serious trouble, possibly the penitentiary, and that he would never again have his peace of mind. He replied that it would not worry him a bit."

S. C. Houston and A. A. Funk, police officers, testified regarding the murder of the knife in Riley's possession.

A conflict in certain portions of the testimony of the witnesses as to the date of the killing was resolved by the judge to grant the habeas corpus and the setting of the bond. Attorney W. T. Riley protested that the amount of the bond was prohibitory, but it was not changed.

"ONE IN YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD"

Detained And Lonesome Girls Long For Music; Appeal For Phonograph Since The Old Music Box Collapsed

If you happen to possess a phonograph with which you are willing to part, you have an opportunity to do an act of real charity. There is a little colony of women and girls in El Paso who need one.

There are 20 women detained in government ward No. 5, at the county court house. A month ago one might have entered the ward and found a contented and happy lot, sewing, making lace and engaged in other work, while the strains of some popular music filled the room from a music box, ancient and worn, but still a music box.

A week or so ago the girls made an appeal for a phonograph, but apparently nobody paid any attention to them.

Fame Of The Cloudcroft Golf Course, Highest In World, Spreads To France

That the fame of Cloudcroft in having the highest golf links of the world has found its way into France was shown by a copy of the Paris edition of the New York Herald, May 10, which was received by Garnett King, general passenger agent of the E. P. & S. W. The copy was sent to Mr. King by Pvt. Warren E. McDaniel, company B, 61st telegraph B. S. C., who formerly was an agent for the E. P. & S. W. system at Captain N. M. and who now is at Wittlich, Germany.

The article, which was in the form of a letter to the editor, signed by "Leo H. B.," follows:

"In a recent edition, 'S' floats at the idea of Monte Carlo, which has golf links 2900 feet above the sea level, as being the highest in the world, with the statement that Colorado Springs has a course 5000 feet above the sea, which he avers to be the highest."

The golf course referred to is 2200 yards, with nine holes, and with par at 34 and bogey at 36. It was laid out on an expanse of blue grass after many picturesque pine trees had been cut away for it.

Coincidentally with the receipt of the newspaper from Pvt. Daniel, Mr. King received a letter Friday morning from M. H. Huthings, manager of "The Lodge," stating that the golf course was in better shape than ever.
